COLLEGE WILL GET PICTURE OF DR. HANSON

Muncy, Artist, Of New York, Placing Finishing Touches On Work.

STUDENTS' GIFT

Commissioned by the student body at Gettysburg college to paint a portrait of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president, P. W. Muncy, of New York, is now putting the finishing touches to the picture which will be presented to the college and later placed in the administration building along with paintings and pictures of former presidents of the school.

Two or three more sittings will bring the artist's work to a close. Mr. Muncy will then take the portrait to New York with him for framing, after which it will be returned here for the formal presentation exercises, which will take place some time before commencement so that all of the students may be present.

Begun on April 25, the picture, measuring 36 by 46 inches, portrays Doctor Hanson, clad in academic robes, sitting on a high-back, English chair. Off-setting the somberness of the black academic gown is the rich red ribbon of the degree of Doctor of Divinity, around the shoulders of the president, and a light blue book he holds in his right hand.

College's Degree

Although the Doctor of Divinity degree is not the highest honor which Doctor Hanson holds, he selected it because that degree was conferred upon him by Gettysburg college ten or twelve years before he became president of the battlefield school.

The guest room of the Hanson home on the campus was turned over to Mr. Muncy for the studio and there Doctor Hanson has been sitting for the artist an hour and a half each day since the picture was begun.

Is Fine Work

Everyone who has seen the portrait since it entered the final stages has remarked on the striking manner in which Mr. Muncy has placed on canvas the features and the spirit of his subject. "Doctor Hanson has been a patient sitter, and I enjoyed painting him exceedingly," Mr. Muncy said today.

Mr. Muncy, who has studied art at home and in Paris, has been painting professionally for more than fifteen years. One of his finest pictures is that of the late President Harding signing the peace pact at the close of the world war. This picture, having eleven figures grouped around the president, now hangs in the Harding museum at Marion, Ohio. Mr. Muncy also has painted portraits of numerous government officials and leaders in New York and Washington society.

He has exhibited his works in New York and Paris art galleries, and is rapidly forging to the front as one of the most talented of the younger generation of portrait artists.

Heiress to Wed Italian Marquis

Miss Polly Poli, of New Haven, Conn., daughter of a wealthy financier and former theatre magnate, who is to become the bride of Marquis Lipo Gerrini, son of Princess Theresa Torlonia of Italy. ## WILL INSTALL PRINTERS HERE

Telegraphic Printers To Be Installed In Local State Police Station.

The Gettysburg sub-station of state police will be equipped with telegraphic printer service, a new feature of the state police system, as soon as details of the statewide program are worked out.

Maj. Lynn G. Adams sponsored a bill in the recent general assembly calling for an appropriation of $240,000 for the new program.

With the installation of the telegraphic printer service in the various sub-stations of state police, details of any crimes committed and the description of the criminals, if secured, can be forwarded to the state police headquarters immediately and a state-wide broadcast made. This, in the opinion of Major Adams, will be of invaluable assistance to the department and will help materially in running down criminals before they have time to escape the clutches of the state police force.

The measure passed the legislature and was signed by Governor Fisher.

The Pennsylvania state police, first to adopt a rural patrol in every section of the commonwealth, also will be the leader among the states in co-ordinating police activities.

The printers will be installed in all sub-stations, according to plans now, and direct connections will be established with the Harrisburg headquarters of the force.

Sign Agreement On Water Supply

The engineering bureau of the State Health Department announced today that an interstate agreement between Pennsylvania and Maryland has been signed for the purpose of protecting the water supply for Rouzerville in Pennsylvania and Pen Mar in Maryland.

Work on this project has already been started and is expected to be completed within the near future. The situation causing the agreement is the encampment of several thousand men at Pen Mar, similar to the National Guard encampment at Mount Gretna. The watershed of the stream affected by the stream flows across the line into Pennsylvania and is used at times of low water flow in the summer as a source of supply by the company serving both Rouzerville and Pen Mar.

Sewage treatment works for the National Guard camp are nearing completion and the Rouzerville Water company is constructing a filtration plant which has been approved by the State Department of Health.

FROSH ENJOY POVERTY DAY

Several Yearlings Incur Official Displeasure, but Escape The "Law."

Torn clothes, battered hats, run-down shoes, dirty faces, sockless feet. These were the most conspicuous evidences of the observance of Poverty Day by members of the Freshman class at Gettysburg college today.

Poverty Day marks the end of freshman classs customs, the day when "dinks" are discarded, hands are thrust into pockets and kept there and upper-classmen, who ask for matches, are told gently but firmly to button up their overcoats.

The yearlings couldn't wait for this momentous day to arrive and they started the ball rolling late Tuesday evening, the signal for the freshmen to turn out being the ringing of the bell atop Gladfelter hall. After a sufficiently large number of first year students to start something had congregated something started.

Escape "The Law"

The impetuous freshmen, basking in their new freedom, shoved the automomile of a student under the North Washington street bridge over the Tiber, broke the spark plugs and splattered it with mud. Later the students took two trucks from the G. R. Thmopson and Son warehouse, Carlisle street, and that was a signal for police interference in the "harmless atrocities" of the yearlings. Several students came closer to being arrested than they ever were in their collegiate career, but charges were dropped when Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson prevailed upon the officers that the boys meant no harm and intended no damage to the mahines.

Poverty Day will be brought to a glorious conclusion this evening when the freshmen will burn their "dinks" in a huge bon fire.

York Is Facing Another Religious Upheaval; Two Mormons Defy Mayor

Controversy Precipitated By Three Addresses Delivered By Woman Who Spoke In Local Presbyterian Church Monday Evening.

Still smarting under the sting of the nation-wide notoriety inflicted upon it by the sensational pow-wow murder of Nelson D. Rehmeyer, the city of York finds itself confronted with another possible religious upheaval. This time it involves the old religion embraced principally by Utah residents, but which has reached out to embrace a few York residents.

The present disturbance is attributed to the three lectures delivered last Sunday by Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard, of Salt Lake City, Utah, on alleged Mormon secrets and practices. Mrs. Shepard spoke in the Presbyterian church here, Monday.

Paper's Comment

The York Dispatch had the following to say concerning the upheaval:

"The controversy which seems to be arising was precipitated by the appearance here on Sunday of Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard, of Salt Lake City, Utah, a lecturer for the National Reform league. Mrs. Shepard spoke on Sunday morning at Memorial Reformed church on 'Our Shadow Life'. On Sunday afternoon she appeared at the First Presbyterian church, to an audience of women, on 'The Mormon Temple Secrets'. In the evening she addressed the congregation in St. Paul's Lutheran church on 'The Mormon Misuse of the Bible'.

"For 13 years, it is said, Mrs. Shepard has been campaigning against the Mormon church in an effort to counteract the work of the missionaries of that faith.

Distributed Literature

"Following her addresses here on Sunday, people who attended them were met at the doors of the churches by two young men who distributed to them certain pieces of literature put out by Mormon missions. The literature was distributed, apparently, in an effort on the part of the Mormon missionaries to present their side of the questions which Mrs. Shepard discussed.

"The distribution of this literature, brought to the mayor's attention, resulted in police Monday evening ordering the two young men to appear before the mayor in his office Tuesday morning. They were found by police at 641 West Locust street, where they are stopping during their stay in York.

"They gave their names to police as Willard W. Bruce and Weldon Jensen. Both bear the title of 'elder' in the church of their faith. Bruce gave his address as Smoot, Wyo., and Jensen his as 103 South Third street, east, Brigham, Utah. Their mission address was given as 273 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Both Bruce and Jensen appeared in the mayor's office Tuesday morning.

"Questioned concerning the interview which took place at that time, the mayor said that he told the Mormon missionaries that they had no right to practice their religion in York and that he ordered

The bill was introduced by Representative George D. Sheely, Adams county, soon after Calvin Coolidge recommended the building of a summer white house.

The department of highways is charged with constructing a road from the Pennsylvania boundary to the tract which will be selected by "duly authorized agents of the United States."

Although a summer white house is to be constructed in Virginia, Pennsylvania's offer will stand, if at any future time President Hoover or a succeeding executive prefers a location in Pennsylvania's mountains.

Jurors Object to McPherson's Criticism of Liquor Verdict

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP).—Two jurors in quarter sessions court today refused to remain silent when the court criticized a jury for acquitting a man charged with the illegal possession of beer which chemical analysis showed to contain four per cent alcohol.

The judge was Donald P. McPherson, of Gettysburg, substituting in the court for another judge, and the defendant was John Jennings.

"How did you ever arrive at that verdict in the face of the evidence?" queried the judge. "The facts in this case show clearly the defendant was in possession of high powered beer and there was nothing for you to do but to find him guilty. I think you have made a serious error."

Then to the consternation of court attaches, Howard Hutton, foreman, told the court he did not wish to be criticized. "I and juror number 6 were the only two men on the panel who thought the verdict should have been a conviction but the other ten were for acquittal and I thought that ten minds were better than two and we conceded and made it unanimous."

As he sat down up jumped Gus Neiman, Jr., who was juror number 4, and said he voted for acquittal because a bartender is not a chemist and is not expected to test every barrel of beer he had on tap.

Judge McPherson repeated his statement that he thought the jury had made a mistake and individually questioned the remaining jurors. As the judge finished the query he waved his hand and called the next case.

COUNTY LEADS STATE APPLE SHIPPING, '28

More Carloads Of Apples Shipped Out Of County Than Any Other.

PEACHES, SECOND

With 1026 carloads of apples and 148 carloads of peaches shipped, Adams county led every other community in the state in apple shipments and was second in peach shipments last year, according to a report made public by the bureau of markets, state department of agriculture.

Biglerville was the heaviest shipping point in the state for both apples and peaches, having dispatched 403 cars of apples and 146 cars of peaches. Waynesboro was second in apples shipped with 351 cars and Scotland was second in peach shipments with 125 cars.

More than 25 states in addition to many foreign countries receive fruit each year from orchards and vineyards in Pennsylvania, the report reads. Last year 4506 carloads of apples, peaches, grapes, plums and pears were shipped to points both within and outside the commonwealth.

Marketing officials explain that rail shipments have decreased somewhat during the past two years due to the increased use of motor trucks and to lighter fruit crops.

Considerable fruit is shipped out of Adams county by trucks. Daily, during the shipping season, trucks leave this county for nearby marketing points. Local growers claim that a large portion of Adams county fruit is shipped out of here in motor trucks, which will add considerable to the officially recorded carload shipments with the state bureau of markets.

Apples, which generally constitute the bulk of Pennsylvania fruit shipments, filled 2621 cars last year, the report continues. Grapes were listed as filling 1068 cars, peaches 806, pears 10 and one car for plums. Since much of these varieties of fruit are also shipped in motor cars, the state's fruit production is considerably larger than is reported in carload shipments.

Franklin county shipped eight carloads of grapes, the balance of the state shipment, 1060, coming from Erie county.

The shipments this year are expected to exceed the 1926 total, several county growers predict. This, despite the rainy, cold and windy weather prevalent during April.

The fame of Adams county's apples reached a wide range this year, because of the interest manifest by the Gettysburg Lions club in sponsoring a publicity campaign during the blossoms' season.

Aerial photographs were taken of county orchards and sent to every newspaper in the state. In addition considerable publicity was sent to newspapers in adjoining states and county growers announced a large number of visitors through the orchards.

Arrow signs were posted at different points throughout the fruit belt directing motorists to the blossoms. Other display cards were sent to hotels, motor clubs and newsstands in five different states announcing the display of blossoms in Adams county.

The Wagaman family was at the cottage on Tuesday and had moved household furnishings there, preparatory to occupying it during the summer.

MAROONS LOSE TO J. HARRIS

High School Baseballers Fail To Maintain Fast Clip; Tumble 10 To 8.

John Harris high school put an end to Gettysburg high school's winning streak Tuesday afternoon, when the Albright-coached team sent the Maroons reeling to defeat by a 10-8 score. This was the first league defeat for the Martinmen.

The Harrisburg team was in a slugging mood and pounded out no less than sixteen safeties. Bob Pitzer, who turned back the Harris team in the first engagement, was far from effective. In every inning except the eighth the home club collected one or more base blows. Some ragged fielding and several mental lapses contributed to the Maroon downfall.

Twice the Martinmen held the lead but only for a short period. After John Harris got a lead in the fourth, Coach Albright inserted Lefty Heffelfinger to relieve Dennis. Haffelfinger's twirling was supreme. He did not allow a hit or run in his five innings of duty, and fanned ten men.

Gettysburg scored a pair of runs in the first. Dennis hit Sheely. Kitzmiller whiffed. Sheely filched second. Roddy was safe on Baxter's muff, Sheely stepping to third. Roddy started for second as Knox singled to right, both runners counting.

Bullets Tally 6

John Harris took the lead with a trio of runs. Stine, Foster and Heffelfinger singled and Knox booted Barbush's grounder which gave the victors their runs. They coined another in the second on the second of Stine's four singles and a long triple by Foster.

Coach Martin's team suddenly came to life and took a four run lead by pounding over six runs in the fourth. Singles by McCleaf and Kitzmiller, a double by Sadler, a pass to Pitzer and a fielder's choice topped off by Knox's circuit smnash pushed over the tallies.

The lead was short lived. Five runs were tabbed by Harris on three singles, a fielder's choice, an error and a double. The final run was scored in the sixth. Heffelfinger singled and went to second when Roddy kicked his drive around the outfield. He scored on Barbush's one base ply.

them to leave the city. He said that they were conducting services on sidewalks in front of local churches. The mayor also said that the two men informed him that they would stay in York.

"What will follow the missionaries' defiance of the mayor's orders is a matter of conjecture, but it was intimated later that police have orders to arrest them in the event that they continue their activities.

Not Frightened By Mayor

"When the two Mormon elders were visited by a reporter later in the morning at the West Locust street address where they are staying, they stated that their reception Tuesday morning by Mayor Weaver was hardly what would be expected of a gentleman upon whom a city had bestowed an executive position. They inferred that the mayor had attempted to frighten them out of the city.

"They also confirmed the report that they had informed the mayor during the conference that they would stand upon their constitutional rights providing freedom of speech and religious liberty, and that, therefore, they would stay in York.

"They stated that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints has but a small following in York, only about 10 members, who worship weekly in the Malta temple on East Market street. These services in the Malta temple have been in progress for several months, it was stated.

"The missionaries of the Mormon church, discussing Mrs. Shepard, who spoke here Sunday, discredited her sincerity. They said that some years ago she applied for a position to lecture for the Mormon church as one of its missionaries. Being refused, they stated, she began lecturing against it. The Mormon church, they stated, has no paid missionaries.

"Questioned concerning the practice by Mormons of polygamy, alleged by Mrs. Shepard in at least one of her lectures here Sunday, the two young elders of the church told a reporter that Mormon practice of polygamy was discontinued in 1890 and that a member of the faith at the present time who should take more than one wife would face immediate excommunication."

GOLD BULLETS
by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: Faced by strong circumstantial evidence pointing to Jerry Ogden as the slayer of his father, Lucy, his fiancee, loyally comes to his defense. She challenges the police theories and induces Luther MacNair, famous retired detective, to investigate the slaying. Her uncle, John Peebles, is awakened early in the morning by a prowler in his den. He grapples with the intruder but the latter escapes just before MacNair unexpectedly enters the room. Peebles reveals that the burglar tried to steal the famous Alex Peterson revolver loaded with gold bullets—a weapon that has become mysteriously linked with the murder of Andrew Ogden.

Chapter 10

A DROP OF BLOOD

"WHERE is the revolver?", MacNair demanded.

"I think I am lying on it," I said. A metallic object was pressing into the small of my back. "Here it is. The rascal had it leveled on me when I hit him with the golf club. He dropped it and used his own gun on you."

MacNair looked the pistol over. "Queer, he should have known you had it."

I nodded. "It's just another of the many queernesses we have to explain. I'm glad you happened along. You'd better stay for breakfast. If it hadn't been for Lucy"—patting her hand and being kissed in return—"and you and Mrs. Moffit I'd be past caring about breakfasts."

"No, thanks," he declined. "It's nearly dawn. I want to have a look around the Ogden grounds before Deacon and his men mess things up. That was my object in getting there at this ungodly hour. 'Evidence evaporates. Get on the job early,' is one of the maxims of my profession. There's another I'm fond of, too. 'Stick to your job until it's finished.'" He grinned mirthlessly. "There, Peebles! I've taught you how to be a successful detective in two lessons. Write 'em down."

They helped me into a chair. The window, I saw, had been neatly cut with a diamond near the bolt. Mrs. Moffit appeared properly skirted and carrying water, hot and cold, and a dish of warm olive oil.

"I'll do it," Lucy offered, when I had drunk.

"Miss Lucy," my housekeeper whispered, "you are in your nighty."

"Of course I am. Uncle John is in his pyjamas."

"Lucy," I interrupted dryly, "you might get me my dressing-gown."

She gave me a little gay-sad smile and tripped out of the room. Lucy insists Mrs. Moffit is so modest that she bathes herself in the dark.

I called Polyandria. She sprang onto my knees and while Mrs. Moffit pursued her ministrations I turned her upside down and examined her claws. On the middle claw of the right front foot I found what I was looking for. Mrs. Moffit handed me a lens and I bent it on the claw. When I finally looked up MacNair was watching me ironically.

"Well?" he queried.

I chuckled. "There's a drop of blood on one of Polyandria's claws. She got between the rascal's legs and mine and scratched him. You had better look for a man with a scratch, MacNair."

"Not bad," he said curtly. "Another demonstration of my contention that one should get on the job early. A few minutes later you wouldn't have found it." He peered through the lens. "The scratch will be on an exposed part of the man's body," he went on, "or his garments would have cleansed the claw as the cat drew it back."

"An excellent point!" I remarked. "It hadn't occurred to me. Our task is again simplified; we look for a man with a scratch on an exposed part of his body."

"Hardly as simple as that," MacNair drawled.

"What do you mean?" I exclaimed, struck by his tone.

"I mean if we were to find a man with a scratch on, say, his wrist, it wouldn't necessarily follow that he'd killed Andrew Ogden."

At this, MacNair pulled up his right sleeve and revealed a red welt two inches long on the under side of his wrist.

"What do you say to that?" he chuckled.

"Good Lord!" I exclaimed. "How did you get it?"

"Coming through the window just now. You must trim that briar rose of yours, Peebles."

"Oh," I said in abashed tones. "I'm sorry. I've always been skeptical of the value of circumstantial evidence, too."

"But you shouldn't be," he informed me bluntly. "It's generally dependable. Unfortunately, circumstantial evidence is subject to human interpretation. Coincidence is the biggest maggot in the circumstantial cheese. Make allowances for coincidence and you'll get along nicely with circumstantial evidence. I shall still look for a man with a scratch, Peebles." MacNair tore a scrap of blotting paper from my desk pad, absorbed the drop of blood and placed the scrap in an envelope, which he pocketed.

When I had dismissed Mrs. Moffit and Lucy had brought me my dressing-gown, I picked up the gold-mounted revolver. I ejected the cartridges into my palm. It was my intention to extract the powder from them, as I am averse to keeping more than one loaded weapon in the house, but MacNair objected.

"I wanted a pistol expert to go over the revolver and the cartridges. An expert may be able to give us some hint as to where they came from. Never mind reloading the revolver."

"How stupid of me!" I cried. "I never thought of getting an expert to look at them."

As I handed him the revolver and the cartridges one of the latter caught my eye and I drew it sharply back.

"Hello!" I exclaimed. "This cartridge has been tampered with."

I dug the bullet out with a jackknife and looked for the powder. There was none. Instead, I saw what was evidently a wad of paper and I poked at it with a pin. It came out reluctantly.

"A message, Uncle John!" Lucy cried ecstatically.

When I had got the scrap of paper spread out on the desk it looked as if Lucy was right. It was dirty and brittle and had been torn off the top edge of a newspaper—a very old newspaper—and there was scarcely legible writing in indelible pencil on it. A date line was partly decipherable and, to my astonishment, I made out:

TORRIDITY..Monday, July..1896.

"Torridity!" I gasped.

"Eighteen ninety-six," MacNair muttered.

"The writing, Uncle John—read it!" Lucy whispered.

And with the aid of the lens I did so.

"'...done for, Alex. Dillon got me...skunk, but I ...a bullet...him, somewhere. Good-b...old scout. You did...best for me. I've ...a bad devil.

"JERRY"

"Jerry!" Lucy echoed.

New Brooms Sweeping Jugo-Slavia Cabinet

By Hubert D. Harrison

Belgrade (AP)—The new broom applied to the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes by King Alexander when he set up a dictatorship is making a clean sweep in many quarters. Having cleared away partisan political organizations, sent racial societies to the discard and set up new furbishings for governing the provinces, it has now been applied to the cabinet.

Four whole ministries were found to be so much surplus and have been relegated to the rubbish heap, along with under-secretaries, private secretaries, clerks and other civil servants of varying grade and dignity. The departments whose essential duties were distributed to other ministries were those of Religion, Public Health, Posts and Telegraphs and Agrarian Reform.

Until this change was put into effect there were eighteen ministers in the cabinet. This was recognized as too many for a country with limited resources and the new regime claims that some of the posts were created solely for the purposes of strengthening certain political parties or of forming blocs to keep certain leaders in power under the old parlimentary system.

The number of under-secretariats was held to be especially irksome to the tax payers. It was even said that some of the occupants of these sinecures never entered their offices except on pay days.

Another change is that Cabinet Ministers are now directly responsible for their work. Formerly they were protected by their friends in parliament and could not be brought to book for corrupt practices and abuse of authority. But under a new and strict law they can be tried and sentenced like ordinary mortals. Some ex-ministers are said to be shaking in their shoes for fear the law should be applied retrospectively.

The Presidency of the Government, which has never had a legal status, has been made a separate institution, with a constitution. It is to have charge of the collected statistics of all ministries and state institutions, as well as an information bureau which will supply ministers and the press with data.

Finally, great numbers of civil servants are being dismissed. In the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, for example, many officials, from those ranking as ambassadors to mere typists, have been pensioned or discharged.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Items.—Caledonia Furnace will be offered at public sale in Chambersburg June 6.

The country Sunday Schools that have been under suspension over the winter have nearly all been reopened.

The drouth of the last few weeks is extended and destructive forest fires are reported throughout the north and west.

Shields and Musselman, Fairfield, have adopted the cash system and offer goods at reduced prices. They mean business and intend to redeem their promise and sell at low figures.

A correspondent requests us to to call attention of the borough authorities of alleged violations of the ordinance forbidding the slaughtering of stock within the borough limits. The ordinance is based on the idea that such slaughtering is prejudicial to the public health, and if it is being violated the penalties should be enforced.

Improvements.—Col. McClellan has begun the new building in the northeast corner of the diamond. It will be larger than originally intended, making a good sized hall on the second floor, 33 by 75 feet in the clear.

Rev. Dr. Kieffer has been thoroughly repairing his residence on York street, inside and out, and he has erected a new stable, sunk a well, etc.

William N. Miller has completed the improvements on his lot on East Middle street, new dwelling, shop, marble yard, stable, etc., the whole presenting a good appearance.

David Culp (of Jacob) is putting up a brick front building on the Moose property on East High street.

The rostrum in the National cemetery, Messrs. Tawney contractors, is rapidly approaching completion. It will be ready for use on Decoration Day.

A new roof was put on St. James' Lutheran church, York street, last week.

Samuel Herbst has leased Judge Russell's warehouse, corner of Stratton street and railroad, for five years and has been making considerable improvements in the surroundings. The yard has been regraded and fenced, a new pump put in the well, and a new platform scales erected. The arrangements of the latter are novel and convenient, including a moveable and easily adjustible frame enclosure for weighing cattle. He has also rearranged the hoisting tropes, and made shutes from the garners on the upper floor, convenient for the retail trade in grain.

Walking Match.—The walking match on the fair grounds on Friday evening did not draw a very large crowd, and the gate money amounted to only a little over $9. The walking however was creditable for amateurs. The terms were three hours' walk from 5 to 8 o'clock—go as you please—the one who travelled most miles in three hours to take the belt and half the gate money. Messrs. S. Mc. Swope, D. Kendlehart and A. Sheely acted as judges. There were 8 entries and the record given by the timekeeper was as follows:

James Homan, 17 7-8 miles in 3 hours.
John Frazer, 15 7-8 miles in 3 hours.
Ed McCleary, 15 miles in 3 hours.
Will Bitler, 15 miles in 3 hours.
Frank E. Warren, 15 miles in 2 hours, 56 minutes.
Will L. Homan, 11⅝ miles in 2 hours, 20 minutes.
John Codori, 14 miles in 3 hours..
George Woodward, 13¾ miles in 2 hours, 2 minutes.

Young Woodward led up to the 13th mile, when he broke down and retired from the track. Woodward made his first 10 miles in 1 hour, 20 minutes, and Warren his 10 miles in 1 hour, 25 minutes. James Homan was declared the victor receiving the belt and half the gate money ,which was formally prestened to him by S. McC. Swope, Esq.

Married.—On the 6th inst., in Arendtsville, by Rev. D. M. Blackwelder, William G. Cassatt, of Straban township, to Miss Harriet E. Moose, of Butler township.

Plank—Trimmer.—May 6, by Rev. Dr. M. Kieffer, Samuel D. Plank, of Cumberland township, to Miss Lucinda M. Hummer, of Franklin township.

Decoration Day.—General Orders No. 5 from Headquarters G. A. R. of Pennsylvania call attention to the approaching Memorial Day, Friday, May 30th, for the decoration of graves of the fallen heroes of the Republic.

The program of exercises for this place is not yet completed, but will be ready, we are informed, for publication next week. An oration will be delivered by some gentleman from abroad, and the day will be appropriately observed. The children of the schools of the town will be invited to participate in the ceremonies. All persons should preserve their flowers for the occasion, as a large number will be needed to strew the graves.

The following committee of arrangements was appointed by Corporal Skelly Post on Monday evening: Maj. H. S. Benner (chief marshal), Maj. Robert Bell, John M. Krauth, W. D. Holtzworth, N. G. Wilson, T. T. Tate, Thomas H. Flaharty.

Arrest.—On Wednesday night of last week, about midnight, Police Officer M. Luther Culp noticed the suspicious movements of a man on York street, and cautiously followed him to ascertain his purposes. He tracked him to the freight depot and Mr. Culp took a concealed position at the corner of Russell's warehouse. The man stepped on the warehouse platform and seemed to be trying to open the office door with keys. Being frightened, the stranger moved off down the street. Mr. Culp followed, overtook him and after grappling with him to remove the pistol of the would be burglar, put the nippers on him. At this time Hugh D. Scott came up with young Harris. On searching him there was found a six shooter, several bunches of keys and some wire. He was taken to jail and next morning brought before Justice Cox, where he refused to give his name or an account of himself. Justice Cox committed him in default of $800 bail to answer at August court the charges of carrying concealed weapons and an attempt at forcible entry.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE MIND AND EYE

THE mind and eye are like two great partners. Each is always supplementing the work of the other.

Without the healthy eye, the mind would have to use its invisible eyes, as is the case of blind people. Who can question that a great being like Helen Keller does not see? But it has always been with her marvelous mind's eyes.

When darkness comes, or when we sit within the dusk of the day, and close our physical eyes, we see great things. Pictures in the gallery of our mind, painted when the light was on, and when all nature and life throbbed with zest and fervor.

Our eyes are always treasuring—picking up this and that, here and there, often without our conscious knowing. And the mind, which is so much wiser than we give it credit for,, selects and gently sets aside whole hours of beauty for the time, perhaps, when this mortal we are gets weary and discouraged—hungering and wanting.

Lafcadio Hearn accomplished most of his great literary achievements with the use of but one imperfect eye. Yet he has left, for untold millions, such rare gifts of beauty in expression that there are probably few who ever guessed that he labored with only a fraction of his sight. One day, during the time when Hearn was a reporter for a Cincinnati newspaper, he took a trip to the top of a great tower, and the next day wrote a most fascinating description of what he was supposed to have seen—though he saw nothing! That is, he saw nothing with his clouded one eye. But with his mind's eyes, he saw all the wonder below.

I believe that all of us are born with a well of beauty within us. Our outer lives are but an expression of how well we have drunk from within.

In the tear of a child may glow all the glories and wonders of an indescribable sunset!

At times we are but a few paces from the doorstep of the Infinite, though those who may watch us pass along may see in us nothing but plodders, questioning the meaning of life.

The mind and the eye, in full accord and understanding, flow silently like the stream, not caring for notice or acclaim, happy in their rich appreciation of worth and love, of life as it is, sturdy in their own quiet faith.

A RADIO FAN'S PLEA

Sing me a lovely little song
That like a brooklet rushes,
But do not pause to tell how strong
Are Cleanem's brooms and brushes.

Read me a poem from a wise
And soul-inspiring master,
But don't break in to advertise
The latest bunion plaster.

Read me a prayer from Stevenson,
New hope, new strength restoring,
But do not tell me when it's done
Whose wax will save my flooring.

Tune up the soothing violin
And play a sprightly number,
But don't remark ere you begin
That Wood sells nails and lumber.

For something strangely chills my blood
And sets my nerves a-tingle,
When poems boost complexion mud,
And prayers with profits mingle.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

"Over there by the Bubbling Brook,
Where it turns and twists in a shady nook,
Caught in between two little trees
Little Jack Rabbit is held by his knees," cried the little voice in the treetop, as I mentioned in the last story,

"Thank you, little voice," cried happy Lady Love,—happy to think that she would now find her little lost rabbit,—and away she hopped, followed by Mr. Rabbit and the rescue party—only those in the rescue party didn't hop, they all ran, except Barney Owl, who flew, too-wit, too-woo!

Pretty soon, not so very far, they came to the Bubbling Brook and, following it along, they hurried on until, all of a sudden, they heard the voice of the little rabbit calling for help.

"Cheer up, my baby rabbit," shouted Lady Love.

Goodness me! how fast Lady Love hopped after that, and in less than 40 winks she came to two little trees.

"Oh, my little bunny," she sobbed. "Are you hurt?"

"Maybe," answered the little rabbit. "I'm not quite sure."

Just then up came the big Circus Elephant. Bending apart the two trees with his great strong trunk, he shouted:

"Pull him out! Pull him out!"

But the little bunny needed no help. No. sireemam. No sooner were the tree trunks pushed apart than out he hopped all by himself right into Lady Loves arms. And I guess that's the nicest place to be when your are hurt—right in your mother's arms.

"Now all you robbers can go home," said the big Circus Elephant.

"Good bye," said Old Man Weasel.

"Good bye," cried Mr. Wicked Wolf.

"So long," whined Danny Fox.

"Tooty fruiti!" cried Barney Owl, and in a moment the three little rabbits were left in the care of the big kind Elephant, who carefully picked up the little rabbit and placed him on his back. Then off trotted Mr. Elephant and started to the Old Bramble Patch, followed by Father Rabbit and Lady Love. By and by, after a while and many a mile, they reached the Old Rail Fence. Crossing the Sunny Meadow, although of course it wasn't sunny at this hour—night time, you know,—they soon came to the Old Bramble Patch.

"Oh, I'm so happy," laughed Lady Love, as the big elephant set the little rabbit on the ground. "I'm so happy I don't know how to thank you."

"Don't," replied the big kind animal. "Just let me know the next time you bake an angel cake,—that's all," and off he trotted to the Shady Forest.

"Good bye, old friend," called Mr. Rabbit.

"I'll see you soon," shouted back the old Elephant over his shoulder. "I must hurry, for tomorrow the circus opens in Lettucemere and I must be there to help put up the big tent."

It wasn't long thereafter that all three little bunnies were sound asleep, happily dreaming of clop clover tops and bunnysuckle hops. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Presbyterian Assembly To Air Seminary Discord

Dr. William O. Thompson (left), president emeritus of Ohio State university, recommends reorganization of the government of Princeton Theological seminary. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of the seminary, is classed as leader of the moderate-conservative group of the Presbyterian church, which controls the seminary.

St. Paul, Minn. (AP)—Discord, rooted in the Princeton Theological seminary, has spread to the impending general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the U. S. A., which will convene May 23 and end May 29.

Represented as having grown from personalities, the internal strife in the church's oldest and largest seminary has extended to the institution's two governing boards.

While the controversy will be submitted to the general assembly in search of settlement, some Presbyterian churchmen believe civil courts eventually will untangle it.

The difference between the board of directors and the board of trustees also has been explained as one of doctrine and administration, with a clash of authority in which the seminary's president figures.

Two years ago a committee headed by Dr. William O. Thompson, Columbus, Ohio, president emeritus of Ohio university, recommended reorganization of the seminary government. This proposal has been arranged again for presentation to the general assembly.

Indications are that the assembly will suggest sweeping changes in the directorate, faculty and board of trustees.

Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of the seminary, classed as leader of the moderate-conservative group, is presented as believing the seminary should be responsive to opinion of the whole church. His opponents assert the seminary stands for an ultra-conservative view.

Churchmen declare the dispute has had an "unwholesome effect on students," and some claim attendance has decreased because of it.

With Dr. Stevenson as "moderate conservatives" are: Faculty member, Dr. Charles Erdman; directors, Robert E. Speer, New York, secretary board of foreign missions; Dr. Lewis S. Mudge and W. Beatty Jennings, both of Philadelphia, and Dr. John Finney, M. D., Baltimore.

"Ultra-conservatives" are: Faculty members, Dr. J. Gresham Machen, Dr. Robert Dick Wilson; directors, Dr. W. L. McEwan, Dr. Maitland Alexander, Dr. Clarence Macartney, all of Pittsburgh, and Dr. John B. Laird, Philadelphia.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.—adv.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."

Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals and before going to bed and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

Where are the cars of Yesterday?

REMEMBER, not so long ago, when there was a wider aristocracy of automobiles in America, and a certain few cars were known for their particular fineness?

Pierce-Arrow was of that group, and Pierce-Arrow today occupies the same place in the nation's regard—and for the same reason.

There has never been a compromise with fineness in Pierce-Arrow history. And that is as true of today's new Straight Eight as it was when an equally fine Pierce-Arrow cost twice as much—a generation ago.

A slender, low-swung ultra-modern automobile of generous size and magnificent power, is the new Pierce-Arrow Straight Eight. Its entrance into the fine car field is at a psychological moment. It meets an eager and waiting demand.

Body and Engine by Pierce-Arrow —and Pierce-Arrow in every part!

ANNOUNCEMENT!

SOUND Pictures, made by the eleven great producers, who have adopted the WESTERN ELECTRIC SYSTEM, are naturally BEST when reproduced in theatres with equipment from the same source.

That is why the management of the MAJESTIC THEATRE, GETTYSBURG, PA., eager to provide the best in entertainment, and mindful of their patron's satisfaction, are now installing, at a cost of FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, a WESTERN ELECTRIC sound on DISC and FILM system—the equipment that assures CLEAR and NATURAL tone on both VITAPHONE and MOVIETONE.

This is the same equipment and installation now in use at the Paramount Theatre, New York city; Roxy's Theatre, New York; Mastbaum Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.; Fox Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.; Sid Grauman's Theatre, Los Angeles; Lowes' Theatre, Harrisburg, Pa.; Strand Theatre, York, Pa.; State Theatre, Hanover, Pa., and over a thousand other motion picture palaces throughout the country.

Opening date and list of attractions will be announced later.
